

Sheet 1 — Employees per Department

The Marketing department has the highest number of employees — 7 in total — indicating strong investment in promotional and communication efforts. Engineering, Finance, and Human Resources each employ 6 people, reflecting a balanced core structure across departments. Sales has the smallest team with 5 employees, which may signal a more streamlined or tech-driven sales pipeline. This distribution helps us understand how human resources are allocated across the company.